

PRINCIPLES OF PARTY DEFINED IN PLATFORM

and the hope is now expressed that the Cuban people will soon again be ready to assume complete sovereignty over their land.

In Porto Rico the government of the United States is meeting with loyal and patriotic support, order and prosperity prevail, and the wellbeing of the people is being in every respect promoted, and is deserved.

Philippines and Panama.
The Philippines insurrection has been suppressed, law established, and life and property made secure. Education and practical experience are there, advancing the capacity of the people for government, and the policies of McKinley and Roosevelt are leading the inhabitants step by step to an ever increasing measure of home rule.

Time has justified the selection of the Panama route for the great isthmian canal, and events have shown the wisdom of full and complete authority over the zone through which it is to be built. The work is now progressing with a rapidity and energy far beyond expectation, and the realization of a century's hopes has come within the vision of the near future.

Where Parties Differ.
We call the attention of the American people to the fact that none of the great measures here advocated by the Republican party could be enacted, and none of the steps forward here proposed could be taken under a Democratic administration, or under one in which party responsibility is divided.

The continued power of the party revised, a permanent currency system could not be established, the Federal supervision over railroads and large aggregations of capital could not be extended, nor could any of the new duties confronting the country be performed by a party which is unable to agree within itself on another public question, and is unwilling to cooperate with a party that can agree. The continuance of present policies, therefore, absolutely requires the continuance in power of the party that believes in them and that possesses the capacity to put them into operation.

Beyond platform declarations, there are fundamental differences between the Republican party and its chief opponent, which make the one worthy and the other unworthy of public trust. In history, the difference between Democracy and Republicanism is that the one stood for secession; the other for the Union; the one for slavery; the other for freedom; the one for a debased currency, the other for a pure currency; the one for free silver, the other for sound money; the one for the contraction of the currency, the other for the expansion of the currency; the one for the abandonment of every principle taken on the great questions before the people, the other has held and vindicated all.

In experience the difference between Democracy and Republicanism is that one means adversity, while the other means prosperity; one means low wages, the other means high; one means debt, the other means confidence and credit.

In principle the difference between Democracy and Republicanism is that one stands for vacillation and timidity in government, the other for strength and purpose; one stands for obstruction, the other for construction; one promises, the other performs; one finds fault, the other finds work.
Democracy and Socialism.
The present tendencies of the two parties are even more marked by inherent differences. The trend of Democracy is toward socialism, while the Republican party stands for a wise and regulated individualism. Socialism would give to each an equal right to take, Republicanism would give to each an equal right to earn. Socialism would offer equality of possession which would soon have no one anything to possess. Republicanism would give equality of opportunity, which would assure to each his share of this constantly increasing store of possessions. In line with this tendency the Democratic party to-day believes in government ownership, while the Republican party believes in government regulation. Ultimately the Democratic party would have the nation owned by the people, while Republicanism would have the people own the nation.

Lodge for Permanent Chairman.
CHICAGO, ILL., June 16.—The selection of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts, as permanent chairman of the convention was formally approved at a meeting of the committee on permanent organization held during the late afternoon. It was agreed that all of the other temporary officers of the committee named on the floor to-day should be made permanent.

WOMEN WANT TO VOTE; UNIONS SEEK NEW LAW

The objections came entirely from the Southern States. E. H. Myers, of Arkansas; W. H. Lucas, of Florida; Samuel Davidson, of Texas; and H. H. Angell, of Virginia, vigorously attacked the resolution, claiming that the Republican party in the South was working under adverse circumstances in order to "bring that section into line with the rest of the country." The resolution if adopted would work a great hardship and would discourage their organization. They begged that the question be deferred until morning. They argued that the same question had been brought up before and had been defeated at Philadelphia, and they pleaded with the committee to submit an adverse report. That suggestion was voted down, but the request that the whole matter go over until to-morrow was granted.

Representative Burke and W. A. Guthrie, of Indiana; George H. Sullivan, of Minnesota; and C. C. Dawson, of Colorado, maintained that the proposition was fair.

Delegate Dawson strongly urged the resolution, insisting that if the South wanted an incentive to build up its organization, the resolution afforded it, because the larger the number of votes cast for Republican electors, the greater would be the representation in the convention.

In explanation of how the South will be affected by the resolution Representative Burke said that taking into account the delegates at large, South Carolina would have a vote for every 800 votes cast, whereas Pennsylvania, Colorado and many other States would have but one vote for every 10,000 votes.

North Carolina, he declared, would have one vote for every 800 votes, while New York would have but one for every 10,000 votes. The representation from the State of Mississippi would be practically unchanged.

Many Not Represented.
Eighteen States and Territories were not represented at the meeting, owing to the absence of their delegates, as follows:

Alabama, Georgia, Illinois, Kansas, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Mississippi, Montana, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Alaska, Arizona, New Mexico, the Philippines and Porto Rico.

The committee, with the exception of rules 1 and 2, has adopted the rules of the last national convention. The rules reserved for further discussion to-morrow have reference to the representation and the manner of proceeding.

COMMITTEE HAS HEARINGS AND DECIDES FOR TAFT
Body, Like the National Committee, Dominated by Friends of the Secretary, and Everything Goes His Way.

CHICAGO, June 16.—The fight of the "allies" to have the decision of the national committee reversed in the cases of 110 contesting delegations to the Republican National Convention was carried before the credentials committee, which was appointed to-day. The national committee favored the Taft delegates in each of the three districts involved in the fight now before the credentials committee. The number of contests the "allies" decided to press, however, is just about half of those originally made before the national committee.

There was a disposition on the part of some of the members of the credentials committee to accept the decision of the national committee without further hearings, but this proposition was defeated in a subcommittee of five by a vote of 3 to 2. It was decided to allow ten minutes to the attorneys for each side in cases involving delegates at large, and eight minutes to each side in the district contests.

The committee will continue in session until all the cases before have been disposed of, arrangements having been made to have food served them in their rooms at the Coliseum Annex. Every effort will be made to have a report ready for the convention when it meets to-morrow, and it was ruled that no member of the committee should discuss the merits of the case under consideration for longer than five minutes.

The Alabama contest, involving the entire delegation of twenty-two, was the first to be taken up, and it was decided by the committee within twenty minutes after the close of the arguments in the case. The verdict, which was by a rising vote, was 38 to 7 in favor of the Taft delegates, headed by Joseph C. Thompson. The decision of the committee sustained the action of the national committee. An effort was made by the anti-Taft people to bring about a roll call, but it failed, only sixteen members favoring it. This was four short of the necessary number.

The fifth Arkansas district went to Taft by default.

The opposition, still under the leadership of Speaker Cannon, who directs his forces from his quarters at the Union League Club, is to-night claiming thirty votes to twenty-two on the full committee, and expressing confidence that when the platform goes to the convention the objectionable plank will be missing.

To Oppose Other Planks.
Besides the opposition to the injunction plank, it is understood a fight is to be made against the postal savings bank declaration, against the trust and railroad planks and efforts put forth to insert a number of minor propositions.

The railroad and banking planks of the platform were agreed to by the subcommittee practically as drafted by Wade Ellis and Senator Long.

There was every indication at midnight that the subcommittee would not adjourn before morning.

Reflection overnight has only strengthened the determination of the War Secretary to insist upon the inclusion in the Republican party platform of the anti-injunction plank on the lines of that telegraphed from Chicago last night.

Therefore, a long telegram went forward from the War Department to-day to Frank H. Hitchcock, Secretary Taft's Chicago manager, instructing him to insist upon the anti-injunction plank.

It is understood that the above statement was issued with the distinct purpose of avoiding a complication of the vice-presidential nomination, the result of which might be to diminish Secretary Taft's strength by creating enemies among the friends of those candidates for the vice-presidential nomination who are shown to have either failed to receive his support or encourage his actual opposition.

The Taft delegates were seated in the First and Third Georgia Districts, the only contests in that State. The contestants in the Third District were not allowed to present their case because they had not appeared in person before the national committee.

The Taft delegates in the Florida contests—two at large and three from districts—were declared entitled to the only vote in opposition.

The Taft delegates in all four of the contested districts of Kentucky were seated by the committee. Much bitterness was shown by the opposing factions in the First District, the contestants applying epithets to each other with much energy.

The Taft forces disclosed the fact that they were in complete control of the credentials committee of the convention within a few minutes after the committee was called to order. It had been expected that would be opposition to the selection of Senator Charles W. Fulton, of Oregon, as chairman, but when his name was proposed no opposition developed, and he was elected unanimously. A committee of five was named by Chairman Fulton to prescribe rules on the order of business. All of the members participating in the motion, and the men appointed by Chairman Fulton are friendly to the Taft management. Members of the committee opposed to Secretary Taft seemed to be as much in the minority as the anti-Taft forces on the national committee.

TOGO CLIPPED AGAIN TO MAKE TROUSERS FOR TAFT

Times-Dispatch Bureau.
Washington, D. C., June 16.

Texas has sent a pair of trousers to the secretary of the Taft campaign, and this is said to be the heaviest yield of mohair on record.

The mohair was sent to a Philadelphia concern and woven into cloth of the finest texture, and was then sent to Secretary Taft's tailor in this city, with instructions to make a pair of trousers after the Taft specification.

The trousers have been built and presented to the secretary, with the request that if he is inaugurated on the 4th of next March he will wear them.

The admirers of Mr. Bryan will probably send him a similar pair, which they learn what the Taft people among the goat-raisers have done. There is much speculation as to whether the Taft garments or the Bryan will take more cloth.

The Texas goat men say they selected trousers made of goat hair as being especially typical of their State—large, useful and beautiful. The goat-raising industry of Texas is in its infancy, yet more than two-thirds of the goats raised in America run over the hills there.

The Times-Dispatch correspondent tried to get a picture of the trousers, but did not succeed, and had to content himself with one of "Admiral Togo," the goat from whose back was clipped the fleece from which the garments were made.

WASHINGTON INTERESTED IN FIGHT OVER PLATFORM

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 16.—While the majority of the voters are watching the proceedings of the Chicago convention to see who will be nominated for the presidency, the politicians of both parties are paying close attention to the platform. Democrats and Republicans in Washington are manifesting great interest in the fight over the anti-injunction plank, and the tremendous effort Speaker Cannon is putting forth to prevent its adoption.

One of the most prominent Republicans in the country said in this city to-day that he believed the action of the convention on this subject would foretell the election of Secretary Taft or Mr. Bryan. If the Republicans held Speaker Cannon and refuse to declare for any modification of the present law governing the issuance of injunctions, it will mean the defeat of the party at the polls this fall according to the advocates of such legislation.

On the other hand, if the Republicans have such a plank in their platform and the Democrats at Denver fail to adopt one similar, the Republicans would sweep the country.

This view is expressed by Democrats and Republicans alike. There is little doubt, however, that the Democrats will adopt the plank.

There is considerable curiosity as to whether or not the Democratic platform is being written. It is said to be a certainty that Mr. Bryan has not written a line which he will try to have incorporated, and it is not known here that any other plan is being engaged in such work. There is no doubt that the platform will be much as Mr. Bryan wants it, but though an overwhelming majority of the delegates will be for his nomination, it is doubtful if he will be able to have in it all he desires.

Supplanted by Satin.
Taffeta, which has played such a large and important part both in the making and trimming of clothes, is this season being supplanted by satin.

Satin is the vogue in black and in colors.

For the dressier costumes satin is chosen, and it is seen in all the modish colorings.

Simply it is the dominating note in the construction of these costumes, for satin is a material that can well afford to be used untrammelled, so handsome is it.

Beautiful evening cloaks are of satin; and, as trimming, it appears upon other cloaks as dressy type, whether for evening or day wear.

Gowns of velvet and chiffon and all their places of satin in matching or harmonizing hue.

Bias folds of black satin trim where like folds of taffeta used to adorn.

Slawi collar and small turned-back cuffs of black satin afford a smart finish to the tailored suit of serge, which may be further adorned with satin-covered buttons.

Girdles there are of black satin with sash ends, finished with fringe or tassels; these are worn even with tailored suits.

Embroidered Not Walsts.
Very beautiful new walsts, or rather, blouses, are being made where the design extends down the front, across the shoulders and over the upper part of the sleeves, and some of them are trimmed with bands of very novel embroidery.

We have all heard much of darned net, but this is quite a different variation of the theme.

A design is chosen containing leaves and flowers, and the former are worked in the usual way with heavy rayon floss. The flowers, however, are made of circles of white taffeta gathered over a little bit of raw cotton, and when sewn to the work, the effect is of very magnificent padded embroidery.

On some of the walsts trucks are made and sewn with heavy silk to give fullness over the bust, while the embroidery is done on the material.

The easiest way, though, is to make the embroidery on bands and sew them to the blouse in the shape desired.

Wrinkled Collar Latest.
The latest wrinkle in collars is the wrinkled collar. Many of the new lingerie blouses and dresses are finished with these new collars. It is the simplest thing in the world to make, being merely a straight strip of material (or tuck) or with alternating rows of insertion) cut deeper than an ordinary collar and drawn closely around the neck. It is "boneless," but, in reality, it is furnished with one bone each side of the back—and the bone is as high as can be worn becomingly and comfortably.

The collar wrinkles at front and sides, but, being drawn closely and high-boned in the back, it does not sag around the neck.

The top of the collar should always be finished in a substantial manner; by this I mean that there should be a firm band instead of a thin strip of lace insertion to top the collar.

The wrinkled collar has the double advantage of being easily laundered and comfortable in the wearing.
